H. G. HOFFMANN.

Frederik den Sjette, af Guds Naade, Konge til Danmark, de Venders og Gothers, Hertug til Slesvig, Holsteen, Stormarn, Ditmarsken, Lauenborg og Oldenburg, VOR synderlige Bevaagenhed! Os er af Vort danske Cancellie allerunderdanigst blevet foredraget et af Eder gjort Forslag angaaende den Betaling, som paa Vore vestindiske Eilande bør erlægges for de Synsforretninger, der omhandles i Forordningen 27de April 1832 om Tilsyn med Indretninger, der drives med Dampmaskiner.

Efterat have taget dette Forslag tilligemed de af Vort danske Cancellie derved allerunderdanigst fremsatte Bemærkninger i allerhöieste Overveielse, give Vi Eder herved tilkjende, at de Mænd, der skulle foretage de omhandlede Synsforretninger, og som paa Vort Eiland St. Croix blive at udnævne af Eder og paa de övrige Öer af Vort Raad paa Vort Eiland St. Thomas, ikkun bør afholde Forretningen under Eeds Tilbud, naar hverken den Autoritet, af hvilken de udnævnes, eller den Paagjeldende maatte forlange formelig Eeds Afleggelse, og at disse Synsmænd, der ordentligviis kun bør være 2, hver bør nyde 5rd v. Ct. foruden Reisegodtgjorelse, hvorhos de, saafremt de skulle möde og beedige Forretningen, foruden Reisegodtgjorelse, bør nyde halvt saa stort Salair, som for selve Forretningens Afholdelse. Derimod bör Retten indkalde Vedkommende og modtage Eeden samt give det Passerede beskrevet uden noget Gebyhr. Derefter i Eder allerunderdanigst have at rette og det Fornödne i Overeensstemmelse hermed at foranstalte.— Befalende Eder Gud! Skrevet i Vor Kongelige Residentstad, Kjöbenhavn den 27de December 1837.

UNDER VOR KONGELIGE HAAND
OG SEGL.

St: Croix Christiansted, 4th Aug: 1838.

From the Baltimore Chronicle

THE RIGHT KIND OF A MAN FOR MAYOR.

While the Mayor of New York was dining with the corporation of the city on the 4th of July, he was informed that a serious riot was brewing in the sixth ward. Apologising to the company, he left the table, repaired to the scene of uproar, and found an excited crowd of Irishmen on the one hand, and Americans on the other, engaged in a furious battle. He threw himself without hesitation into the melee, gained an elevated position, and threatened the instant interposition of the military forces under his disposal, if the disturbers of the peace did not immediately disperse. The rioters knew his resolute and vigorous character, and that he would surely execute his threat; and, of course, they immediately threw down their weapons and abandoned the premises. A city can possess no greater blessing than a magistrate of prompt, energetic and intrepid character. Courage—personal courage—is the first requisite of such an officer. If he be suspected of a want of that quality—if, at a moment of public excitement, he display the least hesitation in periling his own person, to preserve the public peace—the cowardly spirit of insubordination and riot becomes bold and ungovernable, and excess speedily obtains and maintains the impetus of outrage and plunder. There is scarcely a riot upon record whose history does not show that a determined and vigorous resistance by the legal authorities at the outset, would have prevented the waste of human life and property which ensued from the use of timid expedients in the beginning.—The strength of the police consists not so much in its numbers, as in the consciousness, on the part of the turbulently disposed, that it will not flinch from the discharge of its duty, from a fear of the necessity of killing a few cumberers of the earth, and the assurance that, in this necessary rigor, it will be sustained by the people and the courts.
